

The EFA Young Audience Award 2015 nominates three films

by Cineuropa

31/03/2015 - My Skinny Sister, The Invisible Boy and You're Ugly Too nominated

My Skinny Sister by Sanna Lenken

The European Film Academy's commitment to bonding European cinema to the youngest audiences continues this year. The fourth edition of the EFA Young Audience Award has unveiled its three nominees: Sanna Lenken's My Skinny Sister [+] (Sweden/Germany), Gabriele Salvatores' The Invisible Boy [+] (Italy/France/Ireland) and Mark Noonan's You're Ugly Too [+] (Ireland). The prize is to be awarded by an audience of 12- to 14-year-olds, straight after the screenings of the three films across 25 European cities during the Young Audience Film Day on 3 May.

The young audience will judge My Skinny Sister's approach to eating disorders among adolescents, The Invisible Boy's powers, and You're Ugly Too's story of an uncle and his niece. Each screening's jury speaker will transmit the voting results to Erfurt (Germany) via video link, where the winner will be announced at an award ceremony streamed live on their website.

The European Film Academy Young Audience Award is organised and presented by the European Film Academy and EFA Productions, with the support of the Mitteldeutsche Medienförderung (MDM).

(Translated from French)