Film Festival Flix acquires trio

19 February, 2014 | By Jeremy Kay

Film Festival Flix has picked up North American rights to a three films led by Mary Queen Of Scots.

Mary Queen of Scots stars Camille Rutherford and Thomas Imbach directed the historical drama. President and CEO Benjamin Oberman brokered the deal with Picture Tree International.

Katherine Randolph's Adulthood and James Huang's Starting From Scratch round out the shopping spree.

Adulthood is a coming-of-age ensemble about of a group of friends entering their thirties. Film Festival Flix negotiated with Markwood Films.

Starting From Scratch stars Huang, who also wrote the script about a separated couple brought back together by a tax audit. Elizabeth Sandy also stars.

The new titles will be used as part of Mousetrap Films' distribution platform Film Festival Flix.

Film Festival Flix is also launching a monthly online short film competition with $5,000 in cash prizes.

In November, the 10 finalists will screen together in select theatres across the US. The winner will be announced in December following an audience vote.
